Imagine!

CCI Friends,

Imagine Sunday morning at your church where your members regularly greet each other with a warm “Mbote! Akumisama!”* Imagine every week with a small piece of the Congolese culture infusing the service: Congolese music, liturgy, offering dance (yes, dance), a song or a prayer in Lingala. Imagine your bulletin or e-newsletter declaring regular updates about Congo and the medical system there. Imagine members of your Congregation learning Lingala together or studying a biblical passage from a Congolese perspective. Imagine your kids locating Congo on the map and learning how to build a Congolese hut. Imagine your church transformed by what they are learning about God’s Kingdom in Congo.

As pastors, we seek authentic spiritual and missional transformation for our church members. We are a dynamic living organism that identifies with the life, works and words of Jesus Christ. But often this is narrowly defined by the American interpretation of the biblical message. We forget to position our congregations to learn about God’s Kingdom as it translates into gorgeous multi-cultural realities across the planet.

Through the Congo Clinic Initiative, we are committed to this transformational journey with you. In this quarterly newsletter, we suggest the creation of a CCI Leadership Team to steward this journey. We also offer activities and ideas for injecting the rich Congolese milieu, spiritual and cultural practices, into the life of your church. Let us journey together on this cross-cultural road, learning about God’s Kingdom, and praying for God to transform us along the way.

Blessings,

Meritt Lohr Sawyer
Executive Director

Developing a Knowledgeable Heart

First Step: Develop a CCI Team for Transformation

How will you make your church's commitment to CCI personal? How will you help your congregation engage with a country halfway across the world? Whereas it is easy to interact and minister with a local ministry down the street, we can't send our entire church to Congo. Yet, we desire our congregation to be impacted by global outreach and transformed by our missional commitments.

At PCP, our deepest prayer for the Congo Clinic Initiative would be to have lasting impact in Congo and in North America. Personalizing mission is one of the greatest opportunities of the Congo Clinic Initiative.

Your first step: Create a CCI leadership team of 2-4 people. This team will create and guide a vision for your church. The goal? To infuse Congolese culture and information for transformation. By meeting regularly (we suggest monthly), this leadership team will develop a plan including a time-line of activities, persons responsible, and how to communicate Congo to the congregation.

When we dedicate ourselves to learning about another culture, we receive a greater understanding of God's Kingdom.

The Congo Clinic Experience set up by Hilmar Covenant Church.

In this and future issues of this quarterly update, we will send ideas to assist you. The committee can then plan out the frequency of church activities, inside the service and out, and how to add elements from Congolese culture into special events and holidays. We are here to help whoever you identify to lead the way to truly make CCI meaningful within your congregation.

Update from Congo

Turn on the lights: solar systems on their way and chief electrician hired!

Solar panels are on their way to Congo and a management team for the solar project has been formed!

We've worked with IMA, an international organization that supports health initiatives in Congo, to order 63 solar lighting systems. This equipment is crossing the ocean, then will navigate customs in Congo's capital and then fly or float to the Equateur province for installation at CCI clinics. We expect it to arrive sometime in the fall. As we identify more clinic partners, we will make another order.

One of the area's best electricians, Gaspary Zongalinga, has been selected to oversee the installation and maintenance of the CCI solar systems. Gaspary has installed or repaired dozens of solar lighting and refrigeration systems. As chief electrician, Gaspary will train people in each region to install and maintain the solar systems. They will identify the electrical needs and capabilities at each facility and install corresponding solar equipment. The same team will continue to provide routine checkups and maintenance.

Gaspary embodies the entrepreneurial initiative that PCP seeks to identify and encourage, and he is a respected leader in his church. Gaspary has started tea, coffee, and palm plantations on his rural farm. He is experimenting with preservation and packaging of seasonal fruits. He has built a school and church, and teaches carpentry to young people. He also personally bought and installed a solar lighting system at a nearby Bible school. We're thrilled that he has agreed to manage the CCI solar project.

Please join us in prayer...

1. For our partners in Congo as they prepare to install and maintain these solar systems
2. For the safe and speedy arrival of this solar equipment

One Month of Prayer for Congo: Create a Prayer Journal

We begin with prayer, the perfect posture to start any new project. Our brothers and sisters in Congo need our prayers. And they pray for us! We are financially invested in the medical system. But we know this will not be easy and will take time. Prayer is our beginning point. Set aside a month of prayer as a church community for Congo and CCI. First, choose a month! Create a 30-day prayer journal. Commit your church for this period of intentional prayer for Congo.

Logistics:

- Determine a month to set aside as a church for intentional prayer for Congo
- Identify a person or team to create the journal
- Identify and ask members of your congregation to write one of the daily devotionals
- Assemble into a 30-day prayer booklet
- Distribute to your church

Booklet creation:

- Determine topics
- Assign devotional writing
- Create booklet

Sample outline:

- Welcome/introduction from lead pastor
- Instructions
- Thanks to contributors
- Week One Prayer Focus: Our Church (byline: "Lord, show us Your Heart and teach us to walk with Congolese humbly and with perseverance")
  - Spaces for notes
    - "As I listen to God this week, I feel moved to: Pray for:... Learn about:... Grow in service:... Give resource to:..." General Notes
